Such disclosures must be made prior to presenting a recommendation of award to the Fayette County Board of Commissioners (the “Board of Commissioners”) or, if Board of Commissioners approval is not required, prior to execution of a contract in excess of $10,000. The obligation for an individual, corporation or other entity seeking to do business with the County to disclose the aforementioned relationships is ongoing and shall be enforced as a prerequisite to any action by a County Official or other person covered by this Code of Ethics to renew, extend or otherwise modify a contract after award.

Receipt of gifts and campaign contributions within the current election cycle valued at $250.00 or more by a County Official, or member of his/her immediate family, will prohibit the County Official from participating or taking action on any matter involving the donor.

Sec. 2-205. Enforcement and administration.

(a) All allegations of violations of the Code of Ethics must be filed with the County Clerk, in writing, signed by the complainant, no later than 45 days after the alleged act occurred unless the complainant, by exercising reasonable diligence, failed to discover the alleged violation of the Code of Ethics within such 45-day period. In such case, a complainant must file an Ethics Complaint with the County Clerk no later than 45 days after the complainant discovered the alleged violation.

(b) In no event shall an Ethics Complaint be filed with the County Clerk more than six (6) months from the date of the alleged violation of the Code of Ethics.

(c) The complainant may withdraw the Ethics Complaint at any time in writing.

(d) Within 30 days of receipt of an Ethics Complaint the Board of Commissioners will review the Ethics Complaint to determine whether same is on its face unjustified, frivolous, patently unfounded or fails to state facts sufficient to invoke disciplinary jurisdiction. A majority of the full Board of Commissioners must agree that a sufficient basis has been given to warrant a public hearing. Certain violations alleged against County Officials who are employees may be referred through the proper channels consistent with the Employee Handbook's disciplinary procedures. A majority of the full Board of Commissioners shall make the determination of whether or not a review board should be impaneled.

(e) If a complaint is received by the Clerk which alleges a violation of the Code of Ethics by a member of the Board of Commissioners, a determination of sufficiency of the complaint will not be forwarded to the Board of Commissioners. The County Attorney of any county within the Griffin Judicial Circuit, or any circuit abutting the Griffin Judicial Circuit, other than the County Attorney for Fayette County, shall make the determination of whether or not a review board should be impaneled.

(f) If a review board is needed, three (3) county attorneys, other than the County Attorney for Fayette County, within reasonably close geographic proximity of the County will be requested to conduct a public hearing based upon the complaint. A majority vote based upon clear and convincing evidence will determine the existence of the violation or lack thereof. Should the review board find a violation has occurred, the review board will assess the commensurate penalty for the violation. A written decision shall be issued within 15 days of the conclusion of the public hearing. County Officials are subject to the following penalties and action for violations of the Code of Ethics:

- (1) Written reprimand or public censure;

- (2) Recovery of value transferred from or received by the County;
- (3) Cancellation of the contract or rejection of the bid or offer;
- (4) A monetary fine not to exceed $1,000.00; and
- (5) Demotion or termination.

(g) Any County Official adversely affected by any final decision of the Board of Ethics may appeal as provided in this subsection.

(h) An appeal by certiorari may be commenced in the Superior Court of Fayette County within 30 days after the decision becomes final.

Secs. 2-206 – 2-220. Reserved.

SECTION 3. All other ordinances or parts of ordinances which are in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

The Board of Commissioners hereby declares that it would have passed the remaining parts of this ordinance if it had known that such part or parts hereof would be declared or adjudged invalid or unconstitutional.

d. PARK AND FACILITY INFORMATION

The Fayette County Recreation Department currently manages 4 developed recreation sites (Brooks Park, Kenwood Park, Kiwanis Park, and McCurry Park). These parks are described and classified below.

Neighborhood Parks

The Fayette County Recreation Department does not currently manage any parks classified as “neighborhood parks.”

Community Parks

Brooks Park – At 17 acres, Brooks Park is the smallest park operated by the Fayette County Recreation Department. The park is located centrally within the Town of Brooks. The primary use of the park is for baseball and softball (3 baseball and 2 softball fields). In addition to these fields there is a playground, picnic shelter and restroom facility. The park is easily accessible by foot or bike but has limited parking. Although this park is heavily programmed for athletic use it is not considered an athletic complex due to its small size.

Brooks Park Continued

Kiwanis Park – This Park is 45 acres in size and is located to the south of the City of Fayetteville on Redwine Road. The park provides 11 baseball fields and is primarily used for the sport. In addition to these fields there are also 4 tennis courts, a basketball court, a tot lot/playground, 2 miles of walking and jogging trails, 7 uncovered picnic benches and one group shelter. There are 4 restroom facilities located throughout the park. The park contains two indoor facilities, an Activity Center and a Recreation Center which can be used for classes and other organized programs.

The park side is located along SR279, to the south of the Fayette County / Clayton County line. A portion of the site is restricted to conservation and can only be developed for passive recreation to preserve the natural habitat. Phase I of development has been completed and sits on 65 acres. Park amenities include tennis courts, basketball courts, a multi-use field, track, sand volleyball courts, picnic facilities, and walking trails. Phase II and III of development will be completed as determined in the Board of Commissioners approved budget.

McCurry Park – At 130 acres, the park is focused on active recreation and provides the county with 12 soccer fields. In addition to these fields, there are 7 softball fields, 2 football fields, a practice football field, 4 playgrounds, 3 miles of walking/jogging trails, a track, a rope climbing area, and a multi-use field. 3. ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE

ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF A BOARD MEMBER

1. TYPE OF BOARD – all verbiage under this bullet point was obtained from the National Recreation and Park Association Advisory Board Member Resource Guide.

The Fayette County Parks and Recreation Commission is an advisory board. The advisory board is typically associated with a park (s) and/or recreation department administered by a division of government: state, county, municipality. In most cases, the governmental entity is administered by an elected body, which has management and policymaking responsibility for a broad range of governmental services including parks (s) and/or recreation. This elected body has the final authority for making all decisions but often looks to an advisory board for recommendations and input regarding decisions that affect the park (s) and recreation department. The advisory board may provide community input to the department director regarding facility operations and programming. Members are appointed by the elected body. In some cases, existing advisory board members will provide the first screening of new members, making recommendations to the elected official (s) who may or may not appoint the recommendations. Appointments are generally for a specific term. In all cases, the role of this type of parks (s) and/or recreation board is just what the name implies: advisory. The group serves as a resource to the decision makers, be that director or elected officials. The advisory board can convey how the citizens as a whole or the segment/organization/program they represent, feel about policies, programs, proposals or decisions.

The Fayette County Parks and Recreation Commission is made up of five members to be appointed by the Board of Commissioners of Fayette County. The membership consist of one (1) each of members residing within each of three districts consistent with Districts 1,2,3 of the Board of Commissioners and two (2) members residing at-large. Each Parks and Recreation commissioners shall serve for four (4) years or until his successor is appointed and qualified. The Parks and Recreation Commission serves as an advisory board to the Fayette County Board of Commission.

ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF A BOARD MEMBER

2. PRIMARY PURPOSE OF BOARD- all verbiage under this bullet point was obtained from the National Recreation and Park Association Advisory Board Member Resource Guide.

If you are recently appointed board member or a prospective member, this section is especially for you. First, Fayette County would like to extend our appreciation for your community involvement and your commitment to providing high quality park and recreation services to your community. This section will provide you with a perspective of what you should expect as a board member, what roles and responsibilities come with the position and a listing of some questions that you may have and some answers to those questions.

Parks and Recreation advisory boards play a critical role in public parks and recreation, offering agencies an advantage in gaining public trust, fostering partnerships and securing necessary funds, which allow their organizations to thrive. Advisory board governance identifies parks and recreation agencies as accountable to the community. Advisory board members also lend organizations their personal credibility. Finally, Advisory board members bring a vision and enthusiasm to the cause. Your infectious drive and dedication can literally propel an organization to new heights.

The degree to which advisory board members benefit public parks and recreation agencies depends, in part, on their relationship with their parks and recreation director.

The role of the advisory board is directly related to the age and stage of development of the organization for which it serves. The external environment, culture and values of each member, as well as the habit and leadership of its chair and executive also affect the role of the advisory board. Good relations with and among the board members, especially the board chair, can affect the success of the parks and recreation professional's career in any community. The advisory board offers multiple perspectives and skills and helps sharpen organizational focus.

Every board should adopt a comprehensive set of by-laws or operating procedures, so everyone has a clear understanding of roles, expectations and responsibilities. A copy of the Fayette County Parks and Recreation Commission Resolution and Bylaws can be found in the Section regarding Resolutions and Bylaws.

It may be the responsibility of the board and Parks and Recreation Director to recommend or develop policy. Many policies concerning the day-to-day operations of the agency are the sole responsibility of the director. It is the responsibility of the director to inform board members of implemented policies. Board members should not attempt to assume the authority of the director or staff at any level. The director is hired to direct the agency and oversee the day-to-day operations of the agency.

Another role of the board may be to plan for the future. Long-range planning can be a time-consuming process but is necessary for a well functioning department. Potential future problems, needs and opportunities must be identified. The key to the success of this planning is the corresponding development of a long-range financial plan that properly allocates identified resources to implement the plans. Significant levels of financial and human resources are required to develop a meaningful and useful long-range plan. The board and director should conduct these planning processes together. The board should avoid delegating this important responsibility solely to the director and staff.

The advisory board and director will likely need to brief and gain support from their governing body before moving on to the next step. It is then the responsibility of the director to prepare reports and inform the board about progress, performance and financial status on a pre-determined timeline.

Another vital function of the advisory board members is to establish and foster relationships with other governmental and community entities. The park and recreation agency is part of the public system. It should be the goal of each board member and the director to build and maintain healthy working relationships with service groups, the Chamber of Commerce, religious groups, neighborhood associations and civic associations. Good relationships with other tax supported units of local government like schools, city government, police, fire, county officials, etc. are also very important. Some helpful hints in ensuring this are to:

- Involve groups in future planning- especially if it will affect their operations.
- Send groups agency brochures and publications to keep them informed about the agency.
- Invite groups to important events, groundbreakings, dedications, and ribbon cuttings.
- Coordinate with other agencies to avoid duplications of services or overstepping established boundaries.
- Encourage and look for partnership opportunities.

The most important function of a board member is working with the community residents. You are representing the residents served by the agency and must be fair and impartial when working with the public. As an ambassador to the public, a board member shall endorse the following protocol:

- Commit to conducting agency affairs in a manner that wins public respect and support for the agency and guarantees its integrity in the community.
- Welcome suggestions and constructive criticism from the public. Board members should seek opportunities to explain to the public the services and programs of the agency and to correct false impressions. It is important to bring such feedback to the attention of the director.
- Represent the interests of the entire community responsibly and responsively.
- Have knowledge and understanding of the laws and legal requirements of the jurisdiction in which the park and recreation agency exists.

Advisory board members are expected to:

- Attend meetings regularly – commitment is paramount.
- Do your homework and contribute to the discussions – review the information provided, be prepared with questions and relevant discussion points. Clarification of agenda items or need for additional information should be discussed with the director prior to the meeting.
- Keep discussions to agenda items only. Ask questions and ask for other options. Learn by listening.
- Vote based on what you believe is best for the community, recognizing that you may need to occasionally compromise. A board member must be willing to abide by and support the decisions, policies and programs agreed upon by the board.
- Be aware of the importance and value of parks and recreation in your community – gain knowledge, ask questions, and work closely and in cooperation with the director.
- Resist political, personal and special interest pressures – have courage, maintain integrity, set high personal standards for yourself and fellow board members and avoid potential or perceived conflicts of interest.

- Resist the acceptance of perks and freebies in order to avoid potential or perceived conflicts of interest.
- Be familiar with and adhere to Robert's Rules of Order and Fayette County's procedures for conducting meetings.
- Refer all media questions to the Chairperson during his or her term
- Serve as your agency's ambassador – promote and support agency events, programs, services, etc.
- Encourage citizen participation – recruit your fellow residents to participate in agency events, programs and services, and encourage them to volunteer in the park system.
- Never forget who the customers are!

The most important quality a board member can possess is the “right attitude”. Knowledge, expertise and interest are certainly helpful, but a positive attitude and sincere interest in the importance of parks, recreation, conservation and open space in the community and beyond are the most important qualities. Other qualities of effective board members are:

- Believing in the agency's mission, purpose, goals and objectives.
- The ability to place the larger interest of the agency above personal concerns or convictions.
- A willingness to serve as an effective intermediary between the agency and outside affiliated groups and organizations.
- A willingness to give freely of one's time and possessing the energy to learn.
- Respecting the varied opinions, points of view and backgrounds of fellow board members, staff, elected officials in the decision-making chain, staff and community at large.
- Being able to inspire the community's confidence, respect and support.
- Having the ability to accept board decisions.
- Respecting the democratic processes.
- Participating in discussions with demonstrated reasoning, good judgment and the courage of personal convictions.
- Demonstrating support for the director as manager of the Department.

Regardless of the motivation that a board member may have in serving on the Recreation Commission, the board member must realize and accept that he or she is a leader who has accepted a major civic responsibility. The board member must be committed to advancing the department's mission and must do so within the defined roles and responsibilities of the Recreation Commission Bylaws.

ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF A BOARD MEMBER

3. ROLE AND RESPONSIBILITY OF THE CHAIR- all verbiage under this bullet point was obtained from the National Recreation and Park Association Advisory Board Member Resource Guide.

The role of the Recreation Commission Chair is different than the role of other board members. More responsibilities are given to the chair than to the other board members. The responsibilities of that position are clearly defined in the bylaws.

The Chair must be willing to invest time and energy in a job that command the respect of both the board members and the community served. Board members look to the Chair for guidance, support and leadership. The Chair must assess and direct board and committee assignments to ensure that the work is on target with the vision of the Recreation Commission and achieve in the most effective way.

The Chair may be expected to:

- Lead board meetings – making sure everything runs smoothly.
- Prepare the agenda and other information needed for the Recreation Commission meeting in cooperation with the Director.
- Coordinate the planning of the board's activities for the year and ensure that an ongoing planning process exists.
- Ensure the new Recreation Commissioners are provided an orientation to the Parks and Recreation Commission.
- Encourage others to voice their opinion.
- Help organize and maintain committees of the Recreation Commission.
- Be aware of the performance of all Recreation Commission Members and Committees.

Conducting the meetings of the Recreation Commission is an important Chair responsibility. One key to a successful board relationship involves effectively run meetings. Some pointers that the Chair and Director should consider:

- Putting thought into the agenda design and clarifying desired outcomes.
- Using meetings as board development opportunities, such as communicating what is new in the field, hearing from customers, having an in-depth review of a popular program or issue, etc.
- Getting materials out ahead of time so board members have time to prepare for the meeting.

By keeping the following goals in mind during meetings, the Chair's leadership qualities will be obvious.

- Start and end the meeting on time.
- Create and maintain a positive tone during the meeting.
- Keep the meetings moving by following the agenda.
- Introduce each agenda item and facilitate discussion.
- Do not let discussions stray from the agenda issue.

- Understand and have a working knowledge of the parliamentary procedures.
- Bring items to a conclusion.

Just because you are leader of the Recreation Commission does not mean that you have any less right or responsibility to participate as a board member. Although you may want to let others voice their opinion first, you are certainly entitled to express your own opinion. However, your opinion should not dominate nor force itself onto other members of the board.

The media can quote anything said in an open forum, but the Recreation Commission Chair should be the only individual addressing the media on behalf of the Recreation Commission.

ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF A BOARD MEMBER

4. RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN STAFF AND BOARD MEMBERS - all verbiage under this bullet point was obtained from the National Recreation and Park Association Advisory Board Member Resource Guide.

The Director must build a strong relationship with all Recreation Commission members including the Chair. The role of the Recreation Commission and the role of the Director are critical to any organization, so the two must support each other. It is important for the members of the Recreation Commission to understand that the Director and staff are responsible to another elected governing body and to the County Administrator.

The Recreation Commission shall communicate its direction to the Director corporately or through the Chair. Routine communications and informational flow from board members may take place directly with the Director. Inform the Director of your likes and dislikes, what you think; what you think the public thinks. However, Recreation Board members should recognize that the Director receives direction from the County Administrator who receives direction from the Board of Commissioners.

Board members should not attempt to usurp the authority of the Director or staff at any level. The Director is hired to direct the agency and oversee the day-to-day operations of the agency. Board members are encouraged to talk with staff at anytime to ask questions about programs, how residents like the program, etc. Board members should not offer instructions to staff but rather inform the Director of Board Member thoughts and ideas.

An advisory board such as the Recreation Commission working within the local county government does not have final decision making or policy setting authority. The following chart indicates the possible roles that the Recreation Commission and the Director play within a successful partnership towards effective agency operations.

ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF A BOARD MEMBER

5. BUILDING COMMUNITY SUPPORT - all verbiage under this bullet point was obtained from the National Recreation and Park Association Advisory Board Member Resource Guide.

It is important for the Department to have community support on a continuing basis. It becomes particularly important when embarking on a new venture. A venture can be a new facility, program, intergovernmental agreement or even a reorganization of some nature. Whatever it may be, a new project generally represents some form of change to a community. When a department embarks on a new project, it is important to build community support for that project. Typically, 5 to 10 per cent of community members will support the project initially and 5 to 10 per cent will oppose it. These opponents and supporters are unlikely to change their position. The remaining 80 percent, called the silent majority are undecided, indifferent or skeptical about the project. Failure to bring the silent majority on the support side can lead to opposition and seriously jeopardize the project. Building community support may be one of the most important stepping-stones to getting a project off the ground. It can also be one of the most challenging. It requires helping people in the community understand the issues and recognize the need for the change. Outlined below are some suggestions to help achieve this task successfully.

- Create Your Message - It is important to develop a consistent and easily understood set of statements about your project and the benefits to the community. It is also essential that everyone in the decision-making chain is delivering the same message.

- Know Your Audience – When building community support, it is important to understand the audience you are trying to influence. Five of the common types of audiences you will encounter are;
 - Users of your services or facilities
 - Non-users of your services or facilities
 - Elected Officials
 - Community Leaders
 - Media

Each of these groups will have different agenda and concerns. The roles they play in the community influence their points of view. Non-users will not care if a particular service is no longer available to them if they do not use it in the first place. Issues must be focused to grab the attention of the otherwise apathetic. Similarly, community leaders will be less likely to support an issue if it does not affect the entire community. In this case, you must look at the long-term broad scope of your project. However, specific interest groups can be very effective in developing support for their issues.

- Get Supporters Early – Often people will be hesitant to support your cause if it has become a high profile controversial issue. This is why it is a good idea to gain support before your project becomes of major community interest. People will be more willing to listen to what you have to say about your project if they are not preoccupied with worrying what others will think of them if they support such a plan. Various communications strategies can be used to win the support of this undecided group. Open public participation is one communicating strategy that has proven to be successful.
- Listen – Hold public meetings and solicit community input before the project begins. When holding a community meeting to inform people of the progress of the project, explain what is proposed and be ready to listen to the responses. Frequently, what attendees hear at a community meeting is that the decisions have been made and there is little they can do. Instead of focusing on the progress of your project, ask for input, opinions and advice. Adopt suggested elements that enhance the project and respond to community needs and concerns. This will show people that they are an important part of the project. Community support is most likely when people know their voices are being heard and are included from the beginning.
- Tools – There are a number of tools to use in educating the public to gain their support. Some tools can also be used to evaluate the level of support that exists. Some of these tools include:
 - Gather and provide information to policy boards and citizen focus groups.
 - Inform key advocates so they can speak on behalf of the project.
 - Obtain and read program evaluations.
 - Conduct resident input surveys on a regular basis.
 - Hold a public Open House where the public can ask questions and provide input.

- Maintain reference centers where current information and a contact number are available: e.g. public library, local store, bulletin boards, website
- Distribute a fact sheet, possibly with a tear-off response
- Provide information to be included in community and neighborhood association reports for distribution
- Provide information in general print and visual communications; new letters, brochures, emails, websites
- Provide the media with information

Building community support for your project is an on-going process. It requires a significant investment of time and requires both perseverance and diligence. Effective and accurate communication is paramount. Be sure to listen and take advice from the community. Let the community know where its input has made a difference. Public participation leads to successful and sustainable projects in your community.

8. OPEN MEETINGS POLICY

Duly appointed boards, committees, commissions and authorities that carry out “government” functions are required to comply with the State of Georgia Open Meetings and Open Records Laws, including the Fayette County Recreation Commission. In summary, these laws require:

- All meetings are open to the public;
- The public is notified of all meetings;
- An agenda for all meetings must be published prior to a meeting;
- A record (minutes) of all actions by the body must be created, retained and available to the public;
- Discussions allowed in “Executive Session” are limited to three areas prescribed by law;
- (The three areas allowed generally do not apply to the Recreation Commission.)
- If a “special” meeting is needed to address an issue outside the timeframe of the regularly scheduled meetings, this can occur by providing notice to the local press, including the specific topic(s) to be considered. This includes but is not limited to workshops, general discussions, and the ability to take an official action.

The call to order shall not require any preceding action but may be issued solely by the authority of the Chairman.

(Code 1983, Rules of Proc., § I)

Sec. 2-37. Motions--General requirement.

The Recreation Commissioners can take action only when a motion to take such action is made and passed by the board.
